Dear Patients,

As many of you may know by now, Dr. Paul Smaglick recently lost his battle with cancer. His concern for his patients led him to practice until the very end. He had been looking to find the right professional to take over his practice.

So, while we are personally shattered by his death, we are comforted to be able to share that Dr. Tim Baggott will be taking over the practice. Dr. Baggott is an excellent fit - he has the same patient centered focus, personal qualities and dental skills as Paul. Dr. Baggott's father was a classmate and friend of Dr. Smaglick's and we know that the emphasis on quality and integrity is multi-generational.

Dr. Baggott graduated Cum Laude from Marquette University School of Dentistry in 2010. While in school, he led his class in production, and regularly worked under the instruction of Dr. Smaglick. Upon graduation, Dr. Baggott began practicing in Greenfield, sharing an office with his father, William. In 2013, Dr. Baggott returned to Marquette Dental School as an adjunct professor. He is on the Board of Directors for the Greater Milwaukee Dental Association, as well as a delegate for the Milwaukee Region to the Wisconsin Dental Association House of Delegates. In his free time, he enjoys cooking, golf, and cheering on Marquette Basketball. Dr. Baggott and his wife, Laura, are expecting their first child in May.

We have every confidence that your dental needs will be well-served by Dr. Tim Baggott. Our own family may even meet you in the office as we come to him for our care.

While we work out the details and timing of the transition, we are very grateful to Dr. Neela Lalani for her excellent care of our patients.

Please feel free to contact the office at 414-271-1246 if you have any questions or concerns.

Thank you to all the wonderful patients. Your kindness, thoughts and prayers, and many cards over the past two years have brought much joy to Paul.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Smaglick and the staff of Dr. Paul R. Smaglick, DDS, LLC
